

World Premiere in Cannes

YYachts to showcase the all-new Y6 and new Y7 at the Cannes Yachting Festival.

The Cannes Yachting Festival has long been regarded as the traditional boat show season opener for the international yachting industry and remains one of the world's most influential in-water boat shows. Every September, the event brings together the leading shipyards, designers and owners on the French Riviera, providing the stage for many of the industry's most significant world premieres. This year, German shipyard YYachts will use the prestigious event to present two highlights of its fleet – led by the world debut of the all-new Y6 alongside the latest generation of the highly successful Y7.

Designed for owners who value independence, simplicity and uncompromising luxury, the new Y6 represents the next evolution of YYachts' philosophy. At just under 20 metres, she has been conceived as a true bluewater cruiser that can be sailed comfortably by one person or a couple, while offering the living space, craftsmanship and refinement typically associated with much larger superyachts.

"The Y6 was developed in direct response to owners who wanted the freedom of solo sailing without giving up the luxury of a true superyacht," says Gregor Bredenbeck, Sales Director of YYachts. "Every aspect of the yacht reflects this philosophy, from her deck layout to the extensive interior configuration options."

Designed by renowned American naval architect Bill Tripp, the Y6 follows the clean, elegant lines that have become a hallmark of the YYachts range. Her deck has been carefully arranged to allow complete control from the helm, enabling safe and relaxed short-handed sailing even on extended passages.

Like every model in the YYachts portfolio, the Y6 is built entirely from advanced carbon epoxy. The lightweight construction delivers impressive sailing performance even in light winds while providing exceptional structural stiffness and efficiency. Below deck, the Y6 sets a new benchmark for flexibility in her class. Owners can choose between three- and four-cabin layouts, while additional configuration options include a dedicated office instead of a lounge, a forward crew cabin or individually tailored owner's accommodation. Rather than offering fixed solutions, the yacht has been conceived as a platform that adapts to the lifestyle of each individual owner.

This philosophy extends to the interior design. For the Y6, YYachts once again collaborated with internationally acclaimed Danish architect David Thulstrup, whose distinctive design language already shaped the flagship Y8. Together with the Mallorca-based YYachts Design Team under the direction of Francesca Modica, four entirely new interior concepts have been developed.

The collaboration merges Mediterranean sophistication with Nordic clarity, resulting in interiors that are both timeless and contemporary. Each concept features its own carefully curated palette of colours, textures and premium materials, allowing owners to express their personal style.

"The interior of the Y6 is crafted for people with exceptional taste – individuals who know exactly what they want," says Francesca Modica, Head of Design at YYachts.

"The four concepts allow maximum personalisation without compromising our clear design language. Each creates its own atmosphere, ranging from minimalist and contemporary to warm and inviting."

Alongside the new Y6, visitors to Cannes will also be able to discover the recently redesigned new Y7. Following its successful world premiere earlier this year, the updated 70-footer introduces numerous refinements by judel/vrolijk & co. A key change beside the new hull design is an asymmetric entrance, which keeps the cockpit passage free at all times – improving flow and usability. The cockpit itself is more enclosed, enhancing onboard safety, and now features a U-shaped sofa on the starboard side for greater comfort.

Below deck, the engine room is no longer beneath the saloon floor, but relocated to a dedicated technical space with dual access, including from the crew area. This change simplifies maintenance and improves separation between living and technical zones.

The Y7 has been received by clients very well and continues to build on its reputation as one of the benchmark performance cruisers in her class, with almost more than 20 yachts already sailing worldwide.

Visitors to the Cannes Yachting Festival are invited to experience both yachts on the water, with the world premiere of the Y6 taking centre stage as the newest expression of YYachts' vision for modern luxury sailing.

You will find the YYachts stand, as usual, in Port Canto.
